BALL REPLIES TO FERGUSON ATTACK

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR DEVOTES MUCH TIME TO HIS OPPONENT

IS HEARD BY LARGE CROWD

Promises Program of Constructive Legislation In Governor's Office. Defends His Record

"One year under the constructive legislation that I have outlined will do more toward making the 220,000 tenant farmers of Texas home owners than under Jim Ferguson's plan in a century," Col. Tom Ball of Houston told an audience that filled the first floor of the Wichita theatre and overflowed into the galleries last night.

Col. Ball devoted much attention to statements attributed to Mr. Ferguson which he refuted with a definiteness and a thoroughnes that showed the Houston man as in dead earnest.

The crowd which heard Col. Ball was estimated at more than 800 and contained many ladies and a number of farmers, some coming from Burkburnett and Iowa Park.

Judge Martin Introduces

The speaker was introduced by Judge P. A. Martin who referred to Col. Ball not as a self made candidate but as a self made man. He said Col. Ball had been pulled out of private life and unanimously endorsed by a large proportion of the people of Texas and made the leader of the moral forces of the state. He said Mr. Ball had been pulled out of his law office like Cincinnatus of old had been pulled away from his plow and made a tribune of Rome.

"He's a great man and a big man," said Judge Martin, "and Texas is going to have a great big governor once more."

Col. Ball in opening his address said that he had not sought indorsement; it was not his desire to become a candidate but that when there came to him what he believed to be a substantial demand that he assume leadership of the moral forces of the state he had no option but to accept.

He said that he believed a candidate for governor ought to have some respect for the truth because a man who would not tell the truth about his opponent will not tell the truth to the people.

Charges by Ferguson

He then took up in detail charges and statements of Ferguson refuting them with vigor and a show of feeling. When he began speaking he was hoarse from a cold which he contracted several days ago but as he proceeded this disappeared. Referring to a charge that he had shared in $18,000 profits from the liquor business he said that if it could be shown that he had shared one dime he'd retire from the race.

"I state now," he declared "when I have my way clubs, hotels and bar rooms will all quit selling liquor at the same time. When Mr. Ferguson has his way every precinct in this state will be selling liquor without restraint."

He repeated his refutation of the charge that he had helped attempt to howl down Governor Hogg and told of his work in Hogg's campaigns in 1886, 1888 and 1890 and said that he was one of Hogg's floor managers in 1892 "when the Ferguson bunch bolted the convention." He mentioned especially Jonathan Lane, Ferguson's campaign manager in Harris county, and Barry Miller, Ferguson's manager in Dallas county.

Reviews His Career

The speaker reviewed his thirty years in private business and public life coming down to the nomination of Wilson at Baltimore. He said that while he was working with all his might for Wilson "Jim Ferguson was over in Bell county doing all he could to defeat him." He said there were over 3,000 members of Ball clubs in Bell county where Ferguson was born and predicted that he would carry that county over Ferguson. The latter, he said, had quit practicing law when he was fifty-seven years old when he got 3,000 acres of black land farms at the same time he got his good wife. Col. Ball said that Ferguson was not renting these farms on the third or the fourth but was working them with hired hands, Mexicans and white men together. The speaker pledged himself to a business administration of Texas affairs.

"I intend to see that you get a dollar's worth for every dollar you pay in taxes," he said.

He accused his opponent either of "inexcusable ignorance or monumental mendacity" in statements attributed to him in which he said Ferguson charged that the pros were responsible for the conditions at the blind asylum.

Not to Restore "Bat"

The bat will not be restored in the penitentiaries, Col. Ball said, if he is elected governor, but promised that the convicts would be humanely treated and that the penitentiary system would be taken out of "politics and out of debt."

He declared himself in favor of universal education and the advancement of the country schools, the es

FAVORABLE REPORT FOR FUTURES BILL

HOUSE COMMITTEES RECOMMENDS PASSAGE OF THE LEVER MEASURE

PROVIDES PROHIBITIVE TAXES

Would Levy Five Dollars a Bale on Future Deals, But Not On Spot Trades

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 4.—The Lever cotton futures bill was favorably reported to the House today as a substitute for the bill already passed by the Senate.

Representative Lever of South Carolina, author of the bill and chairman of the agricultural committee included in his report an analysis of cotton exchange transactions.

This report says the bill "recognizes the economic value of those cotton exchanges that use a contract representative of the true value of spinnable cotton and levels its prohibition only against those exchanges the value of whose contracts is susceptible to violent fluctuation and manipulation. Upon such contracts, the values of which under the exchange rule, do not reflect truly the spot value of cotton as it exists from day to day in the hand sof farmers upon the local markets a tax of five dollars per bale is levied. Such a tax is absolutely prohibitive in the judgment of the trade.

To Reflect Spot Values.

"Upon such contracts as to represent the value of spot cotton, no tax whatever is laid and this is true likewise of all spot transactions including f. o. b. cotton, arrive and for prompt delivery. The whole purpose of the bill is to compel by law the use of such a contract by the futures market that its quotations shall reflect accurately and truly the value of spot cotton.

"In the light of the best information obtainable the ultimate effect of providing such a contract will be to enhance the value of the cotton crop in the hands of the farmers of the South not less tha n$100,000,000 annually." Mr. Lever said he hoped for passage of the bill by the House this session. The Senate measure differs fro mthe Lever bill only in minor details.

Uniform Grade System.

Chairman Lever's report adds:

"The bill compels the adoption of the governments official standards of all future markets. It establishes a uniform standard of grades throughout the country and relieves the trade of the confusion and abuses growing out of the present multiplicity of standards in different markets. It prohibits the use in the settlement of the contracts of the illegical and unsound fixed difference system and substitutes therefor the system of commercial differences in determining the relative value of grades delivered upon contracts."

The announcement of the Rev. J. E. HUERTA MAY TRY TO BLOCKADE TAMPICO

NEW PROBLEM COMES UP TO ADD TO PUZZLES OF WASHINGTON DIPLOMATS

AWAITING CARRANZA'S WORD

No Answer Yet Received—Arms Recently Shipped To Rebels May Not be Permitted to Land

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 4.—Carranza loomed today as the crux in the mediation situation.

Upon Carranza's message to the mediation hung the immediate scope of the endeavor to pacify Mexico. His note was expected definitely to determine whether mediation would include the constitutionalists and the entire problem of Mexican peace. Carranza was in telegraphic communication with his agents here until late in the night. They transmitted to him the mediators' note.

Prospects of an attempted blockade of Tampico by Huerta gunboats occupied chief interest today in Mexican affairs here. Administration officials declined to indicate their policy, although they informed Admirals Badger and Mayo of the situation. It was considered significant that at the state department immediately after constitutionalists captured Tampico it was announced all Mexico gulf ports were considered open and that was interpreted as a clear intimation that no blockade would be recognized.

May Prevent Landing of Arms.

The steamer Antilla, bearing arms for Carranza and which has brought about the present situation flies the Cuban flag. What the United States would do, should Huerta's gunboats attempt to interfere with her, officials declined to indicate. Whether United States warships would permit the Antilla to land her cargo, now that the embargo on arms is again in force was another complicating feature which officials here did not attempt to explain.

One of the foreign ministers in Mexico City advised his embassy here today that Huerta regarded the receipt of recently landed arms as strengthening his position against the constitutionalists but that it had not changed his atttiude toward mediation.

MORE DIRECTORS OF NEW HAVEN TESTIFY

WILLIAM SKINNER AND LEWIS CASS LEDYARD WITNESSES TODAY

DETAILS OF STOCK TRADES

Members of Board Didn't Investigate Very Fully For Themselves, Evidence Shows

By Associated Press.

Washington, June 4.—The Interstate Commerce Commission continued today its investigation into the New Haven subsidiaries. William Skinner, a director of the New Haven and Lewis Cass Ledyard, another director testified.

Value of Securities.

"Why did the directors make a report to the stockholders to the effect that the New Haven held marketable securities of the Billard company worth $10,400,000 when they were in reality of little value?"

This question was asked by Chief Counsel Folk of Mr. Skinner.

"I took the word of the accounting department of the road."

"Then so far as the securities were concerned you were merely a rubber stamp director?"

"I did not and could not investigate all of the details."

"Did you know of the prayer from the hills, issued to create public sentiment?"

"Yes."

"Do you think it was proper to influence public feeling in that way?"

Creation of Sentiment.

"I believe a railroad or other public corporation has a right to create public sentiment in its favor."

"By deception?"

"With all the hue and cry against the railroads they must create sentiment in their favor."

"Are they justified in using any methods?"

"No, but they must create the sentiment."

"You have a representative of the Pennsylvania railroad on the New Haven board and a representative of the New York Central; do you think that interlocking directorates work in favor of the public interest?"

"I believe the public gets a better service by our working together."

"In other words by creating a transportation monopoly?"

"By no means; such an arrangement creates no monopoly; it works for the betterment of both the roads and the public."

Ledyard Takes Stand.

Mr. Crowell, counsel for the directors asked, "Did Morgan at the directors' meeting show any desire to dominate or dictate?"

"Not that I recall; I was away in Europe much of the time and could not attend meetings regularly."

After Mr. Skinner's testimony, Mr. Ledyard was called but was not sworn. He said he desired to contradict certain statements made by Mr. Mellen. He said that on the Boston and Maine board he represented the largest holders of the stock, the Boston and Maine Company.

"What brought about the troubled condition in the New Haven? Was it not the necessity of dispensing with some of the properties acquired which under the various laws the New Haven had to dispose of after it had bought them?"

"That had a good deal to do with it."

"You were not able to finance the New Haven as other large railroads usually are financed?"

"No; we were not; we were obliged to finance the system from year to year. Difficulties grew out of state laws and inquiries and public criticism."

THROUGH TRAINS MUST STOP AT COUNTY SEATS

By Associated Press.

Austin, Texas, June 4.—The third court of civil appeals has affirmed the case of the Santa Fe railway against the State of Texas from Travis county thereby upholding the railroad commission's power to require through passenger trains to stop at county seat stations. The Santa Fe refused to stop its through trains at Meridian, Bosque county on the ground that the traffic did not justify such action; the state sued for penalties for violating the commission's order and recovered $22,400 in the trial court and this was today affirmed.

BELIEVE VOLCANO WILL CAUSE ANOTHER GEYSER

By Associated Press.

Red Cliff, Cal., June 4.—Forest Supervisor W. J. Rushing, after an inspection on Mount Lassen which was in eruption last week, reported today he had found a cavity 100 feet in diameter covered with ashes about a foot thick. He says the hole is 100 feet from a frozen lake in which the ice is melting and water is running into one of the heated fissures which is forcing up ashes and mud. It is thought another geyser is being formed similar to those nearly four miles distant where steam and water is being constantly thrown out.

Survivors Of Empress Of Ireland Making Picnic Of First Square Meal Since Rescue

SOME OF THE RESCUED EATING ... THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

ENGLISH BARBER IS SUCCESSFUL ARTIST

ONE OF HIS PICTURES IS ACCEPTED BY ROYAL ACADEMY AT LONDON

NEWS FROM GREAT BRITAIN

Old Custom of Holding Town Meetings May Be Abolished. Society Fears Militants

By Associated Press.

London, June 4.—Among the artists who had their pictures accepted for the Royal Avademy is Frank Cowley a village barber. His picture is hung on the line, the ambition of every artist, and not "skied" or "cornered" as happens to the great majority of pictures.

Mr. Cowley took to painting before he began to shade the inhabitants of Hadlow Kent, for a living, and his academy picture was painted in six hours. "I worked on it," he said "about years ago, and in two sittings between five and eight in the morning, had completed it."

The picture is a green and grey scheme, showing a smiling country side, with a girl and two white goats standing near a tree. Five times previously Mr. Cowley has sent pictures to the Academy. Thrice he has been rejected, while on the other two occasions he was among those whose work was "crowded out."

He is entirely self-taught, and only recently took first lessons in technique. Barbering, he explains, is an annoyance.

"But I can't run the old trade down," he added "for it has been a good friend to me. Barbering gave me a splendid opportunity of studying types of faces, which I used in my pictures. And, besides, I sold a good many to customers for a few shillings."

Mr. Cowley, who is still in his thirties prefers to regard himself primarily as an animal painter, and he has the use of a private zoo in Kent for his models.

May Quit Town Meeting

England may lose one of its most ancient rights of appeal if the proposal to do away with town meetings meet with the favor of Parliament. The town meeting is the best method local tax-payers have of restricting the operations of local governing bodies.

A bill is now before Parliament to amend the boroughs Fund Act so that taxpayers who disagree with the acts of their councils will lose their chance of calling town meetings and demanding polls. Most of the principal local authorities and those of London are supporting the bill, for many of their plans for improvements, which would mean increased taxation, have been defeated as the result of town meetings, which have been called at the demand of stubborn tax payers. The irony of the present situation is that the local council proposing such legislation must, on the petition of a dozen taxpayers, call a town meeting and pay the expenses of advertising and holding it. And while the campaign is in progress the council by law is not permitted to make any fight for the ordinance, which the town meeting has been called to protest against. So it happens many times that the most carefully laid plans of the local legislators are ruthlessly swept aside by the taxpayers in meeting assembled, and often with the Mayor himself presiding over the obsequies of one of his own pet projects.

Militants and Society

The threat of the militant suffragettes to disturb social season has led society leaders to take very strict precautions. Weddings in which people of political importance are interested are marked for attack and already several have been interrupted by women throwing leaflets from the galleries on to the wedding procession. These pranks, while they cause much annoyance to the wedding party, are easily stopped by the refusal of admittance to any but friends holding tickets.

The big political receptions given by the wives of the party leaders are not so easy to protect from the attentions of the militants. Hundreds of invitations are issued and no hostess likes to ask her guests to present their tickets before allowed to enter her reception rooms. The result is that many uninvited persons attend, and among these the suffragists intend to have their representatives, prepared to make the lives of cabinet ministers and others unbearable. Churches, too, it is feared, are being marked. Several old edifices in London have been specially insured against the risk of damage by suffragettes.

tablishment of rural high schools and liberal support to all the higher institutions of learning. He favored the absolute separation of the A. and M. College and the State University.

One of the first laws he would ask for, he said, would be one requiring candidates to receive majority nominations. He would also prohibit liquor interests from contributing a cent to any campaign fund under penalty of losing license and going to jail.

What He Advocates

Ferguson, he said, had advanced two issues in the campaign. "One promise he ought not to have made and can keep, and the other he ought not to have made and can't keep," said Col. Ball, referring to Ferguson's declaration that he would veto all liquo rlegislation and his farm tenant plank. He ridiculed Ferguson's farm tenant plank as absurd, illegal and wholly impractical.

Col. Ball said that when he became governor he would urge the enactment of constructive legislation including the exemption of improvements on homesteads from taxation, an inheritance tax on landed estates above the homestead, the loaning of 1,000,000 of the state school funds annually to home buyers, and the organization of farm building and developments associations to do for the farmer what the building and loan associations in the cities do for the working man. He favored rural credits, warehouses and better marketing legislation.

He said that if elected that the bar rooms would go out of business with or without submission but that if the people voted for submission the necessary legislation could be enacted within three days and the attention turned to the enactment of the constructive legislation he had outlined.

Other Candidates Speak

Before Col. Ball was introduced Hon. J. J. Faulk of Athens, candidate for associate justice of the court of criminal appeals and John W. Baker of Lubbock, candidate for state treasurer, spoke briefly in behalf of their candidacies.

Seated on the stage with the speaker were:

Ed Howard, Edgar P. Haney, C. R. Hartsook, D. E. Walcott, G. H. Carpenter, J. T. Montgomery, Rev. J. W. Hill, W. J. Bullock, Rev. Morgan, Rev. Miller, A. H. Carrigan, P. A. Martin, B. F. Crawford, C. W. Bonner of Bellevue, W. E. Forgy of Archer City, Hon. J. J. Faulk of Athens and Jno. W. Baker of Lubbock.

Chicken Pot Pie

K C Chicken Pot Pie, Baked Dumplings

One fowl cut in joints; ½ cup flour; ½ teaspoonful salt; black pepper; 2 cups flour; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ½ teaspoonful salt; ½ cup shortening; milk or cream.

Cover the fowl with boiling water and let simmer until tender, then remove to a baking dish. Mix the ½ cup flour, salt and black pepper with cold water to a smooth paste and use to thicken the broth. Remove the fat from the top of the broth if necessary before adding the thickening. Pour this gravy over the fowl, until it is nearly covered, and reserve the rest to serve apart. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt, three times; into this work the shortening and use cream or milk to make a dough, less stiff than for biscuits. Put this by spoonfuls over the fowl in the dish, which it should rest upon and completely cover. Let bake about 35 minutes.

When young, tender chickens are scarce, this presents a most satisfactory way of serving old fowls Veal or lamb prepared in this manner is more appetising than when served as a stew. Try this and the 89 other delicious recipes in the K C Cook e Book, a copy of which may be secured free by sending the colored certificate packed in the 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago.

ED HOWARD, Mgr.

Yes, it is well to remember that you are to live here after the election and too much zeal in electing your man might make it unpleasant for you in interim. It's all right to stick to your friends, but play the game fairly and be honest.—Mt. Vernon Optic-Herald.

Most excellent advice. The candidates after the election, whether defeated or elected, will cease to be interested in you to the extent that you were in them. Just play the game fairly. Your neighbor, in nine cases out of ten, even though he does not vote as you do, is by far a better friend to you than the candidate for public office who you may have voted for and supported, while your neighbor saw proper to vote for and support his opponent. This is a free country, and when you deny to your neighbor the same rights you exercise yourself, you do both yourself and him an injustice. Tell the truth, and let it go at that. A liar is an unsafe man to hold public office.

Col. Tom Hall, who spoke in the opera house last night to an appreciative crowd that packed the main auditorium to its capacity, is one of the truly big men of Texas. While he is the friend of Bailey, he has shown on more than one occasion that he has not allowed that close personal friendship to sway him to ex-Senator Bailey's way of thinking on public questions. He differed with Bailey on Wilson in 1912. Bailey at that time had not resigned his office, and was using all the influence at his command against the nomination of Wilson for president. Just before the presidential preferential primary conventions were held in Texas he visited the state on a speech-making tour, and it was very noticeable that in every county where he spoke (with one exception) that county sent a solid Wilson delegation to the Houston convention. The exception was Cooke county, the home of ex-Senator Bailey, and the contest was so very close in that county that it was said the only thing that kept Wilson Democrats from winning the fight was that it could not be done except by humiliating Senator Bailey. During all this campaign—at times a very bitterly fought contest, Col. Tom Hall, the personal and political friend of Senator Bailey was one of the big men of Texas who were at the head of the Wilson forces, and who succeeded in leading them to such a splendidid victory throughout the state. At the National Convention at Baltimore both Col. Hall and Cone Johnson were much in evidence and again brought additional honor and glory to Texas. Had the Texas delegation wavered in the face of the pressure brought to bear on it, Wilson would have never been nominated. But the Texas delegation—composed of both Bailey and anti-Bailey men, pros and antis, were not the kind of men who "duck" in the face of strong opposition. They were sent to Baltimore to bring about the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for president by all honorable means at their command and it is an admitted fact that, had it not been for the firmness displayed by the Texas delegation at Baltimore, made up of forty of the best men this State can boast, Wilson would not have been made the Demoratic presidential nominee, and in that case it is doubtful, if there would have been a National Democratic victory to celebrate at the following November election. Wilson has made good. All Democrats, or nearly all, admit this, and are endorsing his administration, even though some of them fought him bitterly prior to the Democratic presidential primary conventions in this State. When Candidate Ferguson was here, he had nothing but praise for Wilson and his administration, though he was not for Wilson prior to the Baltimore convention, and it was very noticeable that such praise always brought forth generous applause from his audience. It was the same way with Col. Ball's audience at the opera house last night. They knew that Col. Ball lead the fight for Wilson in Texas, and in doing so was forced to part company with his friend Bailey, at least for the time. Judging from the applause, there was not an anti-Wilson man in the audience. Two years ago it might have been popular for a candidate for state office to oppose Wilson, but things have undergone a change. All candidates are now riding in the Wilson band wagon, regardless of what their opinions of the President were in 1912. They know that the candidate for office at this time who is not an enuthusiastic endorser of President Wilson and his administration could not hope for election, and have changed their opinions. If they are sincere in this, what they had to say against the President in 1912 should not be held against them in 1914. The Democrat who was for Wilson prior to the Baltimore convention, and has been a Wilson Democrat since, can determine that for himself. There will be another presidential contest between Democratic presidential candidates in Texas in 1916. The question for Wilson or progressive Democrats to ask themselves is: can they afford to take any chances on losing the advantage gained in 1912?

MUSICIANS

The highest priced fingers in the world are those of Paderewski, the great pianist. Because of their tremendous earning capacity and because their execution could be impaired by the slightest accident or ill health the artist has to take extraordinary precautions for their protection. He keeps them insured for a quarter of a million dollars and he travels in his own private car surrounded by a retinue of people whose one object in life is to guard his sacred hands from any harm.

The Colonial is the name of his car. Screwed to the floor in one end of the car is a special type of grand piano upon which he practices several hours every day. Mme. Paderewski is with her husband on his tour of this country. She has with her a French maid, Helene and Monsieur has his valet. When there is the cook and two other servants. An important feature of the traveling establishment is the Pomeranian spaniel and the canary.

The artist's secretary is Mr. L. J. Sharpe, an Englishman who has been with him for three years. The staff is under the general direction of E. G. Joubert, the manager.

But the one thing which has prolonged the art of Paderewski and permitted the American public to hear him for the last two years is osteopathy. Although his audiences have not realized it the great pianist has not been a well man for several years. He has suffered particularly with disabling pain in his arms, hands and fingers to such an extent that he had practically decided to retire. He consulted the most eminent specialists on both sides of the Atlantic, but in vain. Medicine gave him no relief. When he was in the very depths of despair he was informed by a number of professional friends that the most of the greatest opera singers and musicians on the stage today had abandoned medical treatment and were depending exclusively upon the new American method of treating disease, known as osteopathy. Several grand opera companies retain an osteopath on their regular staff to keep the singers always in perfect condition and some of the prima donnas are attended by their private physicians of this school wherever they go.

Paderewski tried it. The result was startling. After repeatedly cancelling his engagements and when the musical world was beginning to fear that it might never again be charmed by the magic of his fingers, he reappeared with all his old power. But not alone. Ever since then the pianist has been accomplished by an osteopathic physician who has stuck to him as closely as his shadow. Dr. Joseph H. Sullivan of Chicago, one of the pioneers of the new school and one of the best known practitioners in the world, is his professional attendant and travels with him in his private car during that portion of his tour which takes him through the middle west. When the car is too far from Chicago or when Dr. Sullivan can no longer neglect his practice, Paderewski replaces him with some other well known physician who daily adjusts his neck and shoulders in the osteopathic fashion in order to keep the nerve paths from the brain to the fingers free from any pressure interference which could cause pain or interfere with agile movement. WEARERS OF GRAY GUESTS AT PICNIC

CONFEDERATE VETERANS ENTERTAINED AT LAKE BY U. D. C. CHAPTER

DINNER, SPEECHES AND SONGS

Reminiscences of War Time Are Told and Old Music Is Revived When Veterans Meet

Today the "defenders of the lost cause," the remainder of that army of the days of '61 to '65 who so proudly wore the gray while the stars and bars waved over the Confederacy are again fighting over the past battles, rejoicing in the victories and manfully accepting the final defeat. The old soldiers of this community, those of whom who were able, are attending the old soldiers picnic given at the lake by the Daughters of the Confederacy. There were twenty-three veterans, representing almost as many regiments and from nearly every state in the Confederacy.

The entire day proved to be one of much enjoyment to the old soldiers, and a long line of reminiscences is being indulged in. The days of the camp fire and the march, the dark days when prison was fate of some and the glorious days of victory for the South, followed by the final submission to the stronger North, all of these topics were discussed, and if the passing years had some what dimmed the eyes of some, and had bent the back, it was evident that the ardor and zeal, which enabled them in '64 and '65 to hold out so long, was in no way dimmed by the passing of the years.

Songs Are a Feature

The time before dinner was spent with conversation, and during the dinner hour, when the veterans showed their youth again by a full appreciation of the sumptuous repast set before them, the old time songs were sung by Misses Lillian McGregor, Laura Bell, Mabel Simpson, Agnes Reid, Genevieve Carver and Mrs. Fulton. Impromptu speeches were made and some of the old time favorites were sung by the veterans, to repay in part the gracious smiles.

Following the dinner a program was carried out, consisting of speeches and music. The old time songs, the camp fire songs, and "Silver Threads Among The Gray," led by Miss Mathie Matheny brought delight to all the listeners and formed a most enjoyable part of the afternoon's entertainment. Judge Scurry, representing the Sons of Confederate Veterans, made a speech and talks were made by others. For the old soldiers the day was filled with enjoyment and the pleasure of talking war times over with old comrades will long be remembbered.

Those Taking Part

The veterans at the picnic were W. T. Allen, W. J. Howard, 10th Alabama; H. M. Johnson, N. L. Lowrance of Iowa Park, Third Mississippi; H. C. Young, Company K, Alabama; J. T. Woodhouse, Company G, First Texas; R. M. Stanage, Company G, Mississippi; M. Lenhart of Trinidad, Colo., Company A, Seventh Louisiana; J. M. Bryan, Company B, Nineteenth Texas; J. T. A. Fleming, Company B, 63rd Virginia; J. M. Hartsfield, Arm of Northern Virginia; J. M. Davis, Company C, Young's Battery; H. J. Norwood, Company A, Rose's Brigade; W. K. Sharer, Company B, Baker's Brigade; G. D. Huey, First Mississippi Reserve Cavalry; A. Freed, Company C, Stone Second Regiment; G. M. D. Prichard, Company G, Lacken's Regiment; George Simmons, Forest's Escort; W. P. Davis, Company L, 41st Mississippi; C. C. Allen, Company A, 41st Mississippi; V. S. Kay, Company E, Second South Carolina; S. L. Cox, Company D, Eighth Virginia; Robt. Cobb, Captain of Cobb's Battery, Breckenridge Division.

Others present were Judge Scurry, Judge Felder and J. L. Brant. The daughters present were Mesdames N. L. Lowrance of Iowa Park, H. C. Young, V. S. Kay, S. E. Pepper of Elderville, Texas, E. W. Carter, McElroy, Fulton, Patterson, Lee, McDowell, Brant, Shepherd, Miller, Felder, Kemp, Adickes, McGregor, Bolding, Frank Smith, Misses Maud Davis, Minnie Young, Laura Bell, Lillian McGregor, Mabel Simpson, Agnes Reid, Genevieve Carver and Mathie Matheny.

LAKE WICHITA IS ASSUMING USUAL SUMMER APPEARANCE

Skating Rink Proves Popular—Hotel and Cottages Filling Up With Hot Weather Boarders

Lake Wichita is rapidly assuming its annual summer appearance and is now the rendezvous for large crowds each afternoon and evening. The skating rink is an increasingly popular place of amusement and there is scarcely a day on which one or more picnic parties do not appear in the pavilion. With the opening of the swimming pool and the moving picture show still larger crowds are expected.

The hotel and cottages are filling up with summer boarders and practically all of the cottages have been rented for the summer, though not all the tenants have gone out yet on account of the cool weather. A number of race horsemen are at the hotel, watching their horses get in condition for the race meet this month.

Several new motor boats have been added to the "fleet" of pleasure craft and Wichitans seem disposed to be waking up to the possibilities of the lake in this connection.

Tie Resulted In Game, Last Monday—Stampers and Cats To Play Tomorrow

This afternoon's Twilight League game between the Black Cats and Liepolders promises to be one of the best of the schedule and both teams are getting ready for a finish fight. On Monday the two nines played a tie so that today's game will count for something. The Cats have a much stronger team than they had and the past game or two has shown them 100 per cent better than when the season opened.

Tomorrow the regular Friday game will be palyed with the P. O. Stampers and Black Cats as the contending teams.

REPAIRS MADE ON SPILLWAY PUTTING STOP TO DAMAGE

Channel Is Widened To Prevent Cutting By Water—Dike Built To Spread Stream

After keeping a large force of men busy for a week or more, the water company has alleviated to a considerable extent, the trouble arising out of the overflow at the spillway. The water had been flowing out in such a way as to cut a deep channel through the fields on the other side and considerable complaint was made of the damage resulting. A sort of dike has been constructed in the center of this channel, out of earth filled sacks, serving to spread the stream out and make it shallower and less dangerous. The work is now finished, but a small force is being kept on duty.

The roadway near the trestle is more than hub deep in water, but is passable. In view of the recent additional rains and the present condition of the lake, water will doubtless continue to go over the spillway for a month or more.

NEW BRIDGE ACROSS RIVER TO BE FINISHED THIS WEEK

Realty Company Is Planning Big Celebration In Addition on Fourth of July

The Scotland Realty Company's bridge across the Big Wichita will be completed this week. The county will open a road to connect with the Iowa Park road and as soon as this is ready it is expected considerable traffic will come over the new bridge.

A big Fourth of July celebration is being planned by the promoters of the addition. It will be an all day picnic affair with a barbecue, public speaking and other features. In the afternoon the park site donated to the city will be dedicated. It is expected to run excursions into the city on that date and make a gala day.

ANOTHER ELECTION IS NEAR IN MEXICO

JULY 5 IS DATE FOR PEOPLE TO VOTE ON PRESIDENT ONCE MORE

OLD RULES STILL IN EFFECT

No Chance For Anybody Except Incumbent—Usual Force Likely To Be Enacted

Vera Cruz, June 4.—Two months from tomorrow if Huerta is still in power and perhaps even if he isn't, Mexico will perpetrate that occasional farce known as a popular election. Huerta has tried one election, but so few people voted that he didn't dare to claim the election valid. But the election July has been called by the congress of Mexico and Huerta, if he runs, will undoubtedly attempt to prove after it is over that the election was held honestly and that the president of Mexico was chosen by an expression of the popular will.

It can be said that there isn't any way to have an honest election in Mexico, under the present election laws, which are the laws Mexico has always had, since the republic was established. Let's take the imaginary case of Juan Martinez, a laboring man, in the City of Mexico and watch Juan go through the process of expressing his will as a sovereign voter. In the first place Juan doesn't belong to any party as John Smith does, in the United States. Only the folks with collars and cuffs belong to parties and Juan always takes his hat off when he's in their presence. These collar and cuff persons have temporary party headquarters in some building in the capital and these headquarters look exactly like ward, city, county or state headquarters in any American city. It is littered with handbills, posters and pamphlets and filled with collared and cuffed politicians.

No Chance For Opponent.

But you'll notice that there is only one headquarters. That's the one that belongs to the party of which the outgoing president is a member. The "outgoing" president in Diaz's time—and he will be in Huerta's, too—is always the leading candidate for re-election. He permits a few other persons to make believe they are candidates against him, just for appearance's sake, but he knows that our friend, Juan Martinez won't vote for them. The outgoing president, under Mexico's election laws, always owns the election machinery, and there is no way to get it away from him.

About two weeks before election day, always a man comes around to Juan's house. Juan isn't home; he's away at work of course. The man is an election official; he talks with Juan's wife. He wants to know what kind of a man Juan is. Has she ever heard her husband talk against the president; or against the governor of the state? She never has, certainly. As soon as the election official sees that Juan is just a common, everyday, workaday type of Mexican, who won't run amuck on things political, he leaves a certificate for Juan. This certificate entitles Juan to go to the polls to vote and when Juan gets home at night and asks the "Missus" what has happened during the day, she hands him the certificate which Juan tucks away, against election day. Juan is now a duly registered voter.

At last the Sunday rolls around; election day is always on Sunday in Mexico because Diaz, at the request of his friends the great ranch owners in Mexico, set the custom so that the voters would go to the polls in their own time instead of the bosses. Juan goes to the polls. The chances are he doesn't want to go but his boss, who is probably a big factory owner, or a big farmer, who wants to stand in with the president and governor, desires Juan's vote.

How Voting Is Done.

So Juan turns up at the polls. The polls usually consist of a table placed in one of the big double doorways which lead from the sidewalk into the patio or some business house or residence in Juan's neighborhood. Around this table sit men in collars and cuffs and high silk hats. If there's anything that throws Juan into a panic it's strength of a high silk hat (which they have owned for years) with a long black coat thrown in for extra measure. Mexico is very peculiar that way. Off comes Juan's sombrero; he tucks it under his arm and looks frightened; he doesn't know it, but he's a better man, every inch of him, from his handled feet to his kindly brown eyes.

"What's your name?" asks one High Hat. Juan names himself and hands out his certificate. Another High Hat rises from his chair, takes the certificate and says to Juan, in effect, "For whom do you vote for president?" Juan tells him out aloud, so that everybody around can hear. If he doesn't speak loudly enough, the High Hat repeats it in loud tones. It's a sure thing that somebody representing Juan's boss will be there to hear how Juan votes. Then at 6 o'clock the votes are counted. On the night of Sept. 15, 1910 half an hour after the polls had closed, I went to the home of Francisco Madero who had just been elected president and asked him if he thought the election law and the manner of voting in Mexico fair. "No. They're not fair," he said to me. "I have just telephoned to a friend of mine that if he doesn't reinstate a chauffeur whom he discharged today because he did not vote for me, I will not speak to him again. I know that I have been elected president today, under this bad election system, but you may say to the American papers that one of the first things I shall do after I get into office will be to change the election laws of Mexico to provide for secret voting."

TEXAS HOTEL MEN IN SESSION AT VICTORIA

Victoria, Texas, June 4.—Hotel men from all parts of Texas were in Victoria this morning forgetting the cares of business and for a time dropping the role of hosts to be guests of Victoria during the three days convention of the Texas Hotel Keepers Association.

During the first two days of the convention important official sessions will be held for the discussion of new ideas in hotel work, legislation affecting their business and election of officers for the coming year. While no statement was made concerning the subjects to be considered, it was thought likely that interpretation of laws affecting the serving of alcoholic drinks in hotel dining rooms would receive much attention. The third day of the gathering will be devoted entirely to entertainment features.

468 CONVERTED IN SCOVILLE MEETINGS

DATE FOR CLOSING OF REVIVAL WILL PROBABLY BE DECIDED TONIGHT

TEN ADDED WEDNESDAY NIGHT

"Ancient and Modern Leprosy" Is Subject of Sermon—Noon Meetings at Local Shops

Previously reported	458
Converted Wednesday	10
Total to date	468

"Ancient and Modern Leprosy" was the subject Wednesday night at the First Christian Church, Dr. Scoville, the evangelist using this theme for a discourse that was convincing and eloquent. At the conclusion of the sermon ten accepted his invitation and came forward, bringing the total responses at present to 468.

Next Sunday had been tentatively fixed as the date for ending the meeting but this has not been finally decided. A meeting of the church board will be held tonight at which definite action will be taken. Many of the church members feel that the success of the revival has been too marked to allow it to stop without at least another week of meetings.

While the First Christian Church has added very considerably to its membership as a result of the meetings, other local churches have also increased their rolls. Twenty-seven of those converted have joined one local church and others have received smaller numbers, more than one hundred of those coming forward joining churches other than the Christian. In this way the benefits of the meetings have been largely interdenominational.

Noon Meetings Held.

In his sermon last night Dr. Scoville used the term leprosy as descriptive of sin, taking his text from the story of Naaman. The burden of his message dealt with the power of Christ to cleanse from sin.

Noon meetings were held today at the automobile factory and at the Denver round house. At the former the men petitioned the management for enough time to allow a full hour's service and this was granted, Dr. Scoville himself being in charge. At the Denver shops, Rev. Walter Sandy and the youthful cornetist, German Simms of Mineral Wells conducted a service of which music was a leading feature.

Tonight Dr. Scoville will display a number of stereopticon views of Palestine, taken on his trip around the world several years ago. "The Plan of Salvation" will probably be his subject.

We Are Getting Ready —Are You?

The time when you should commence using OUR ICE regularly is about here, and we are working hard to get our delivery system in tip-top shape. We are after a new high record for efficiency this season.

Are you getting ready, too? Here are some things you should do before our wagons come, if you wish to get the best results from OUR ICE:

FIRST, TAKE A LOOK AT YOUR REFRIGERATOR. If it needs "fixing," have it repaired at once, provided it is a good refrigerator and large enough for your needs. If you found it too small last season, trade it off or exchange it immediately for one that has enough capacity to be a real saver and not an ice-eating aggravation.

SECOND, RESOLVE TO BEGIN THE SEASON WITH OUR COUPON BOOK, and to continue using it as long as you take ice. This book will save you quite a lot on the ice bill and a good deal more in worry. It can not be lost easily, like small change, and it protects you from the discomfort of handling wet, dirty change. Always buy the book with the coupon that covers your usual taking of ice.

THIRD, RESOLVE TO COMPLAIN DIRECTLY TO US if anything goes wrong with our service to you. We will be much more interested in hearing about it than any outsider could possibly be, and it will have our immediate attention. By acting on these suggestions you will start the season right and help us to keep right with you all the way through.

How About Your Child?

Theodore Roosevelt was the happiest and most amazed child in the country when he first saw the world through glasses.

For years he had been unable to see what other children saw, but he was too young to understand why.

His parents did not know of his eye weakness because he did not know of it himself

Looking through two pieces of glass may open a new world with new opportunities to your child

We can determine by scientific examination, whether glasses will be of benefit, and we urge you to have this examination made

The American Nation uses more soap than any Nation on earth Soap is close kin to religion if cleanliness is next to Godliness Do not be afraid of soap as its judicious application to the human cuticle is a step against disease More soap and less medicine is a kind of safety first slogan that should be followed to the letter

We have more kinds of soap and more soap of a kind than any store in the city at prices ranging from five cents to two dollars and fifty cents the bar You do not have to buy either of these unless you like as there are a hundred other kinds Get the soap habit. If you can't be good be clean

DADDY'S FORTUNE

"Daddy was a good man" I happened to hear a well to do young man say so I went out to the cemetery and looked for his record on the family MEMORIAL There wasn't one The plot was neglected grown up in weeds and the like The young man and his associates were riding around in a big six, leading a gay life spending the neat little fortune daddy left them Looks to me like they were very ungrateful Did not think enough of him to buy a simple little head stone, but what's the use Such is life

Anyway the above class is in in the minority and there are many that don't forget To those who believe in remembering the departed I invite you to come and see me I will be glad to do your work and do it right

Lilas de Rigaud Bath Salt . . $1.00

Nymphs and fairies, perhaps, may have known for long the joy of bathing in flower-fragrances. Outside of their world, be sure it has never been experienced in all its exquisite freshness until Lilas Bath Salt appeared as a toilet adjunct. Use liberally in the bath—as refreshing as a spring shower. In large glass jar with glass top; tied with lilac silk cord.

Lilas de Rigaud talcum Powder . 50c

So delicately fragrant that it merely suggests in the most alluring fashion the big, purple, heavy headed lilac clusters swaying in the May wind. Dainty and fine and absolutely pure. In sanitary glass jar with patent sifter top.
